GRAY HELD TO ANSWER FOR MURDER AND HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Admitted to Firing Shot, But Not with Intent to Commit Murder

WAS TAKEN TO COUNTY JAIL

Ausburne Gray was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Paul R. Nutt, on Wednesday afternoon, on an information made by Chief of Police Albright, charging him with the murder of Augustus Smith, at the plate glass works, Tuesday afternoon.

When arraigned before the Justice and the charge read to him, Gray admitted firing the shot, but said he had no intention of committing murder. The Justice then committed him to jail, without bail, to await the action of the grand jury and it is possible that the case may be presented next week, and the matter disposed of as soon as possible. A number of witnesses were taken over to Washington during the afternoon, to be held at the county jail pending the disposition of the charges against Gray. Those taken over and lodged in jail were Edward Lee Griffith, Lennie Barbee, Ananias Watkins, John D. Beaumit, Fred Duncan, Ed. Mason, Andrew Ogden, Henry Flack, Enoch Martin and Georgia Rodgers.

The Rodgers woman is the one who was with Gray at the time Smith is alleged to have annoyed him. She only arrived in Charleroi on Monday night last from her home in Hopkinsville, Ky., claiming to be the wife of Gray. County Detective Bert Laird, who was in Charleroi on Wednesday, made an investigation which developed that the quarrel between Gray and Smith was due to her presence With all essential facts in their possession the county authorities will be able to dispose of the case without any delay.

The body of Augustus Smith will be taken to his late home in Hopkinsville, Ky, on the 5:06 train this evening. It was identified on Wednesday by his sister. Mrs Mary Glass of 112 Decatur street. Pittsburg, who with her husband came to Charleroi Wednesday morning on receipt of information that her brother had been killed Smith was just a little past 20 years of age.

VERY FEW TAKE HEED OF DANGER SIGNALS

Pennsylvania railroad officials in conference with representatives of the State Highway Department declared that there is a surprising disregard of railroad crossings signals by persons who travel the highways. Statements issued by the public service commission show that during the first six months of 1920, 148 automobiles were struck by trains at grade crossings in Pennsylvania, resulting in the death of 38 persons and the injury of 158 others. During the same period of the year 63 wagons were struck at grade crossings.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR MONONGAHELA PIKE

The State Highway Department on Wednesday announced the award of a contract for road construction in Washington county, through North and South Strabane townships, 22,845 feet, to Burgess & Dorrier, of Scottsville, Va., for $317,494.60. This is a section of the old Williamsport pike which the state is to permanently improve. The section placed under contract is near Washington.

COAL SPECULATORS HIT BY RAILROADS

Railroads on Tuesday clamped the lid down tight on speculation in export coal at their expense, with the result that permits for the shipment of fuel consigned to tidewater were as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth. Comparatively little coal went to tidewater on Tuesday from Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia fields because the railroads demanded proof that definite arrangements had been made for the ship bottoms at the ports.

It was said by railroad officials on Tuesday that some coal men have made a practice of speculating extensively at the expense of the rail transportation companies by shipping coal to the ports with the intention of having it on the tracks inactive in the hope that the market would go up then unloading it as a big profit on the strength of immediate delivery.

This practice, it was declared, has resulted in flooding the terminals and tying up railroad equipment and otherwise causing a congestion of traffic that works harm to the entire transportation facilities of the country. One railroad was reported as being congested along its lines for a distance of 65 miles, chiefly with coal without definite destination.

DR. WILLIAM DAVIDSON ON ROUND TABLE PROGRAM

Members of the Principals' and Teachers' Round Table of Washington county will hold their fall meeting in the public meeting room of the court house on Saturday, November 6, with the opening session at 10:20 o'clock in the morning and the afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Dr. Wm. Davidson, superintendent of the Pittsburg schools is expected to be present to make an address.

Fire Destroys Big School Building Near Arnold City

The big 10 room frame building of the Marion school, of Washington township, Fayette county, located between Arnold City and Fairhope was completely destroyed by fire at 3:00 o'clock this morning.

The fire was discovered at that hour by men going to work in nearby mines and the alarm was immediately given. The fire appeared to start in room No. 7 on the second floor, and it burned with such rapidity that before any aid could be summoned the entire building, together with its equipment and school supplies, was in complete ruins. The loss is estimated at $50,000 only partially covered by insurance.

Directors of the township are at a loss to account for the blaze, as they say there was no fire in the building on Wednesday. They are now trying to make arrangements for a continuation of the schools, and are hunting for vacant rooms in that locality that pupils may be taken care of until some permanent arrangements are made. There are fourteen schools in the township of which Marion was the largst, and the destruction of the building and its contents is quite a blow to the district.

ISSY CERVONE TO APPEAR AT THE COYLE

Always on the lookout for some special feature for his patrons, Manager Robert Coyle of the Coyle theatre, announced this morning that the Issy Cervone orchestra of Pittsburg which is to appear at the Elks' barn dance Friday evening, will play his seven o'clock show, before reporting for their principal engagement of the evening.

Cervone, leader of the orchestra, is one of the best known musicians in this part of the state and has a world-wide reputation. He was band master of the Great Lake Naval Band and during the war played before the President of France at Savenay, France, and for General Pershing at LeMans. Manager Coyle's efforts to secure this splendid orchestra with its celebrated leader for the first show Friday evening will no doubt be appreciated by patrons of the Coyle, who will be anxious to hear such a splendid musical organization.

ANSWER ALARM AT AN EARLY MORNING HOUR

The Charleroi fire department received a hurry call at 3 o'clock this morning, to assist at the fire which destroyed the Marion school house, between Arnold City and Fairhope. However, theservices of the company were not needed when they reached that point, as the building burned so rapidly that it was practically destroyed before they could render any aid in saving the structure.

ELKS TO FROLIC IN BIG BARN DANCE

Invitations for the big barn dance to be given by Charleroi Lodge, No. 494, B. P. O. E., for Friday evening October 29 have been issued through the columns of the "Bingville Bugle." This publication, current issue of volume 7 (come) 11, number 494, supposed to be edited by John Jenkins and Joe T. S. Cowen, calls attention of "Fellow TownsMen and yer SwEEthearTs" to the great event which is to be held at the Reglar Elks barn, at the cross roads, Fallowfield and Third Pikes, in Charleroi. The fun, as the publications states, "begins eggsackly at sundown and will continue until the wee small hours of the morn."

As a closing admonition the "Kommittee" says: "Yu Kum. Dress in yer Gingham aprons and overalls. Bring yer glad smile and yer pocketbook and leave yer grouch tied to the village pump. Gingerbread and sider will be served. Extree vodville performances have been pervided and the greatest time in the histry of Bingville will be pulled off"

If the occasion shall meet the expectations of the "Kommittee" we can readily believe that it will be the greatest event the Charleroi Elks have ever seen.

MANY CASES OF MEASLES ARE REPORTED IN BOROUGH

ASSAULT OCCURRED ON THE AVENUE

George Gray, manager of Gray's pool room, Fallowfield avenue, says that Lester Wagner was not "blackjacked" in the pool room, Tuesday evening as reported. While the argument started in the pool room, and while it is admitted that Wagner struck Malinchak while both men were standing near a pool table, the assault by Malinchak occurred on the street while Wagner was on his way home.

OILERS LOSE THREE TO RUSSELL'S WAHOOS

The "Oilers" had their lamps trimmed by Capt. Russell's "Wahoos," the victors taking advantage of the absence of three of the best bowlers of their opponents and defeating them three straight games. Capt. Russell and "Tink" Piersol rolled three nice games for the victors, while Riley, J. Russell and Monier were leaders for the "Oilers." The "Wahoos" won the first game by 20 pins, the second by 39 and the third by 88. Tonight Capt. Howard Vernon's "Devil Dags" play Capt. Bert Mitchell's "Packers." Game called at 8:30. Score:

Over One Hundred Homes are now Under Quarantine Because of Malady

NEW CASES REPORTED DAILY

At the present time Charleroi is passing through one of the most severe epidemics of measles with which the town has ever suffered. The malady made its appearance some few weeks ago, and already several children have been taken by the disease. The epidemic seems to be following its course, and in spite of severe and drastic regulations imposed by the local Board of Health it appears to be spreading throughout the borough.

Health Officer Darby has been kept busy every hour of the day for several weeks in looking after the various cases, in quarantining homes where the disease appears, and in fumigating houses after the quarantine has been lifted.

Since the epidemic began one hundred and forty-seven houses have been under quarantine, while at the present time there are one hundred and two in charge of the board of health. The total number of cases of measles of which the board of health has record since the epidemic started is 233, with 117 under the care of phhysicians at present time. In addition there have been seven cases of scarlet fever, four cases of diptheria, and one case of chicken-pox reported, in all of which instances the health board has taken the proper precautions to prevent contact. On Wednesday fifteen new cases of measles were reported and many additional ones are expected to be reported to the health authorities before the epidemic runs its course.

A meeting of the local board of health is called for Friday evening, at the borough building, at which time such additional measures will be taken as are deemed necessary to protect the citizens of the borough from a further spread of the disease.

DR. H. W. TEMPLE TO SPEAK AT CALIFORNIA

Dr. Henry W. Temple, Republican candidate for re-election as Congressman from the 24th district, will deliver a "League of Nations" address in the California Normal school auditorium on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. Temple is a member of the house committee on foreign relations and is in a position to know the interpretation of the roding of the covenant of Versailles. The rally is expected to be the largest political gathering of the year in the Monongahela valley.

DOGS ONCE CALLED VERMIN

Only in Comparatively Recent Years Have They Received Recognition Under English Laws.

Our laws regarding dog bites, which Judge Cicer declares to be full of anomalies, are all of modern date, says Tit-Bits.

There seems to be no reference to dogs in any law passed before the accession of Queen Victoria. In a case heard by Mr. Justice Eliot in 1535 it was ruled that dogs were vermin, and for that reason the church would not degrade itself by taking tithes of them. Nor was a dog the subject of larceny at common law, the ruling being that "a man shall not hang for a dog."

Parliament first began to notice dogs in 1838, by passing a statute increasing "the resources of civilization" against the lawless doings of Irish curs.

Ten years later, dog fighting, bull baiting and bear baiting were prohibited by parliament. Between 1854 and 1882 no fewer than eight statutes were passed regulating the condition and social status of the dog, one of which placed him in a position of a taxpayer. In addition to these which applied throughout the United Kingdom—a special act was framed to curb the sheep-worrying propensities of dogs in Scotland.

WOULD SELL AT THAT PRICE

Broker Declined to Wait for Any Further Advance in Quotations on Prepared Foods.

A prominent curb broker, wishing to make his lunch period as brief as possible, forsook his accustomed restaurant, a very exclusive place, for a "trust system" buffet.

Glancing up at the price board, he noted "Pot Roast Beef with Corn Muffins, 30 cents," which he ordered. As he "self-served" himself to a vacant place at one of the tables, he again turned his gaze to the board, where he noticed an attendant was now doing some sleight-of-hand work.

With much astonishment he beheld the 30, denoting the price of "P. R. B. with C. M. common" dexterously changed to a 35. When he had sufficiently recovered from the shock, with plate of victuals in hand, he approached the food trader, and indignantly inquired as to the cause of the sudden change in price.

"Why, I bought this hardly three minutes ago," he protested, "when it was quoted 30."

The lunch room profiteer smartly answered, "I know, but the asked price is now 35."

"Well," shot back the broker, "I suppose there's every indication of a further rise, but I guess I'll get out now. You can sell this for me at that price and keep your commission out of the proceeds."—Wall Street Journal.

Landed Freak Fish.

A wearied marine monster blundered into the net of a San Diego, Cal., fisherman not long ago. On being pulled into the fishing smack by the astonished captain, it was found to measure a little more than 15 feet long, and in general configuration to resemble a shark, reports Popular Mechanics Magazine. Its upper jaw was surmounted, however, by a clumsy-looking horn of solid bone. A month after its destruction in a fertilizer plant, a prominent scientist notified the fishing captain that he had caught a female of the species basking shark, of which only six are known to have been taken during the history of the world's fishing industry.

Real Beer for Bavaria.

The Bavarian breweries are to resume the production of beer with an alcoholic content of eight per cent, according to a statement made on August 5 by the Bavarian minister of agriculture, following his return from a meeting in Berlin, where the general food situation of the nation had been discussed and certain plans for the future agreed on between the national and state authorities. He also said that the daily bread ration was to be raised from 200 grams to 300 grams per capita and that the state control of the egg market was to be dropped in October.

Fleet to Hunt Sponges.

The enormous rise in prices of sponges has induced Italian ship owners to construct many new craft for sponge gathering, the fleet setting forth from Sfax, the sponge market, numbers some 60 vessels this year, in contrast to 30 in previous campaigns, writes United States Consul Cookingham of Tunis. The sponges gathered during the summer campaign now in progress will, it is expected, bring at least 50 francs per kilo to the Sfax market.

The "fellaha," the woman water carrier, for centuries an institution in the Holy land, is threatened with extinction because of the use of water carts, growing popular through the demands of sanitary measures.

New Antiseptic Discovered.

At Bellevue hospital, New York, they are using a new antiseptic, discovered by F. A. Mardon, a graduate nurse, who has been working on it for 25 years. It is called chlorsal and is similar to several other antiseptics, but has the great advantage over them of not being affected by exposure to the air.

The Good of Life.

What is the good of life? A philosopher has answered: "Giving and loving and helping." The happy are the helping, the loving are the living. "He who has a tear for pity and a hand open as day for melting charity;" he whose good deeds are without wish for publicity or expectation of gratitude—his is the rarest luxury of soul. Charles Lamb tells us that the keenest pleasure he ever knew was to do a good action by stealth and have it found out by accident.—Humphrey J. Desmond.

Josh Billings.

The humorist whose pen-name was "Josh Billings," was Henry Wheeler Shaw. He lived from 1815 to 1885. He turned off many shrewd sayings, bits of quaint philosophy and pointed jokes, but they were rather damaged by the laboriously bad spelling in which they were written. This style of humorous writing, quite popular in the United States half a century ago, has about gone out of vogue. Today Josh Billings is little more than a name.

Proved Himself Hard to Kill.

There are many cases on record of professional fasters doing without food for 40 days. Some few years ago a French soldier Corporal Desrats, fell into an old mine-shaft near Brest. He lay there, unable to get out, for 28 days, and that without a morsel of food or drink. Yet at the end of that time he was able to call for assistance, and when got out, could tell his story. With proper care he completely recovered.

Making Glass of Rice Husks.

Experiments have been carried out in Burma with the idea of utilizing the silica content of paddy, rice husks, in the manufacture of glass. On burning the husks about 18 per cent of white ash is obtained, and, although this ash contains small quantities of iron, it has been proved to be suitable for the manufacture of glass having a pale green or yellow color. In burning the husks sufficient heat is generated to carry out the various processes.

Immunity From Second Attack.

The United States public health service says that it is well known that an attack of measles or scarlet fever or smallpox usually protects a person against another attack of the same disease. To some extent this appears to be true also of influenza. Just how long such protection lasts is not known.

The name was first applied to Lower California, and probably was taken from the name of a fictitious island abounding in gold and precious stones, which was described in the Spanish romance, "Las Sergas de Esplandian," published in 1510.

Ancient Perfume.

It seems strange to us today to read of saffron as a perfume; one of the romances about it lies in the story by Hakluyt of a pilgrim smuggling, at the risk of his life from the Levant, a head of saffron in a hollow made in his staff.

"OLD GLORY" NEVER SALUTES

Incident of Boy Scout Jamboree in London Apparently Misunderstood There and in America.

There has been much comment on this side of the ocean as well as the other because during the recent "international Scout jamboree" in London the American Boy Scouts did not dip their flag in salute, as the scouts of all other countries did.

Even when ceremonies were held in honor of the war dead, the American flag remained steadily upright when all other flags were dipped. When King George reviewed the Scouts, again our flag remained stationary while all other flags saluted him.

It is reported that this "unfortunate event" left "an unfavorable impression," and critical comments have come from some quarters in this country also.

But there will be no criticism in any quarter where the rules of the flag are known, and especially there will be no criticism from anybody who has read the infantry drill regulations. For there these very plain words appear: "The national color never salutes." Every citizen, and all state regimental and other flags render tribute to the Stars and Stripes. But proud Old Glory never ducks a courtesy, even to the president of the United States.

The American Boy Scouts in London were simply obeying a primary rule governing the use of the flag.—Duluth Herald.

TRULY IN BUSINESS FOR FUN

Lord Leverhulme recently told a good story to show why business men work as hard as they do. It is not for the money, he said, as much as for the sheer fun of it.

A man named Tyson, he said, went out to Australia in the early days. He now has sheep farms in Queensland, New South Wales, Victoria, and South Australia. He has millions of sheep and cattle, yet he lives as simply as one of his own stockmen.

He is now eighty years of age—hale and hearty. When he was asked why he worked so hard and lived like a workman, he replied that it was not a matter of money at all.

"I have put sheep where there were no sheep," he said: "cattle where there were no cattle—houses where there were no houses—white men where there were only black men before. That is the fun I get out of it."

Codfish and Education.

Has New England, in these days of silk shirts and fur coats, become too proud and fastidious for honest and nutritious codfish balls? The sacred cod still swims aloft above the heads of our wise men assembled in the revered General court. It is no mean symbol. It stands for those days of toilsome industry and frugal living on which New England prosperity was founded. "The lowe fishball" is a poetic work of creative genius illustrating the close relation between codfish and education. Fish was always reputed food for the brains. If we have got here to-day we deserve in our fat folly to be the prey of the gougers and are entitled to no commiseration from any one.—Salem News.

Airplanes Carry Jewelry.

Watches and jewelry are to be transported to Paris by a newly established aerial service, and from Paris to London by the present commercial air line, to avoid the troublesome delays of the present rail service, says a correspondent writing from Geneva, Switzerland, in the Cincinnati Times-Star. A syndicate of the principal manufacturers has been formed at Chaux de Fonds, the seat of the industry, to handle the air shipments. It is expected ten days will be saved by this method and the cost will be slight, in proportion to the value of the freight. Air shipments were decided upon largely because of American buyers' insistence upon prompt delivery.

Doctor Kane, the arctic explorer, said that among the worst curses in the far north were the rats that infested his ship. Nevertheless, when in want of other food, he was glad to eat them—sometimes chopped up and frozen into tallow balls. He wrote: "During the long winter night Hans beguiled his hours of watch by shooting rats with bow and arrow. The repugnance of my companions to share with me this table luxury gave me frequent advantage of fresh meat soup, which contributed no doubt to my comparative immunity to scurvy."

World's Oldest Auto Driver.

The world's oldest automobile driver has been discovered.

He is John Crook of Lynton, Devonshire, England. Crook is 93 years old and has been driving a car for the past five months. In that time he has not had an accident and has driven through the densest traffic in London without a trace of hesitation or nervousness.

Mr. Crook intends to start out on a tour of France, Belgium and other parts of the continent.

Aggrieved.

"Do you mind if I smoke?" asked the politician politely.

"Not at all," replied the suffragette. "I'm not in politics for my health."

"But, my dear madam, my cigar is not as bad as that."

Pepper Tea.

Pimienta, or pepper tea, deriving its name from the marked similarity between this fruit and the pepper bean, is the berry of a plant which grows wild in Honduras, Central America, the extract of which enjoys a wide usage as a substitute for tea and coffee, and is by many preferred to either, writes a correspondent from Puerto Cortez. The beverage is very soothing, and should, if introduced on the market, enjoy a marked degree of popularity.

Fish in a Power Plant.

Algae and other water growths persisted in growing in the cooling towers of a large power and light plant. Chemical solutions did not seem to affect them, and finally the company hit on the plan of placing carp in the towers. Immediately the water began to clear up, and soon all trace of algae had disappeared. The fish did not interfere with the purpose of the towers, so they still live there.—Popular Science Monthly.

Home of Famous People.

Famous folk were among the authors, inventors and composers who made Bardstown, Ky., their home. Take it from the Automobile Blue Book. The composer was Stephen Collins Foster, who composed "My Old Kentucky Home." The inventor was John Fitch, who built the first steamboat. The author, perhaps, better known than either of the two, was J. James, author of the phrase, "Hands Up!"

The gold mine of St. John del Rey, in Brazil, is the deepest metal mine in the world. It was opened more than 80 years ago, and had been sunk to 6,326 feet at the time of the latest report. The temperature in some parts reaches 116 degrees F., the rise in the heat of the rocks averaging one degree in every 126 feet of descent from the surface.

This Tiger a Flyer.

It is strange a creature as frail as the tiger swallowtail butterfly should be endowed with such wonderful powers of flight, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington, D. C. With a body but of little more than an inch in length, and very slender, and with a wing extent rarely exceeding four and one-half inches, this dauntless insect is as much at home in the air as any bird.

Fill Your Blood With Iron If You Want To Be Strong

WITH PLENTY OF ENERGY AND POWER

Says Physician—Explains How Organic Iron Like Nuxated Iron Often Increases the Strength of Weak, Nervous, Run-down People In Two Weeks' Time.

You cannot expect to forge ahead in life with plenty of energy and power if your blood is thin and watery any more than you can hope to run an automobile on water instead of gasolene. It takes pure, red blood—rich in iron—to keep the human machine working right. Without iron your every action lacks power, your red blood corpuscles die by millions, the strength goes from your body and you drop among the weaklings and failures.

"But when such men and women supply the right kind of iron to their blood, a most surprising change often takes place," says Dr. John J. Van Horne, formerly Medical Inspector and Clinical Physician on the Board of Health of New York City. "The weak, colorless blood which has been moving sluggishly in the veins becomes rich and red and courses through the body, building healthy tissue, giving renewed force and increased strength. Without this rich, red blood with plenty of iron in it, there can be no physical perfection or force to carry on one's work. Yet to take the wrong kind of iron may prove worse than useless just as the wrong sort of food will often fail to give the proper nourishment. Organic iron—Nuxated Iron—by enriching the blood and creating new blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the muscles and helps instill the whole system with fresh vigor and endurance whether the person be young or old. I strongly advise every man or woman who is fagged out by worry, work and other strains to build up strength, and health by taking organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for I consider it one of the foremost blood and body-builders, the best to which I have ever had recourse."

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.) New York and the Westchester County Hospital says: "I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anaemic, run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles. To supply this iron deficiency and to help build strong, healthier men and women, better able physically to meet the problems of everyday life, I believe physicians should at every opportunity prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for in my experience it is one of the best tonic and red blood builders known to medical science."

If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day for two weeks, then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron, which is recommended above, is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Each tablet of genuine Nuxated Iron is stamped as follows—N—and the words Nuxated Iron are stamped into each bottle, so that the public may not be led into accepting inferior substitutes. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

THE COLOMBIAN IDEA OF US.

A report filters into this country from Colombia, South America, illustrating the false position into which the United States has been forced by the high-handed methods pursued by the Wilson Administration in dealing with Santo Domingo and Haiti. Some weeks ago, it will be recalled, Senator Harding condemned the policy of the Administration toward the insular republics as "the rape of Haiti and Santo Domingo by the present Administration." This followed the vain-glorious boast by young Frankie Roosevelt that he wrote himself the constitution of Haiti, which was imposed upon the Haitians whether they would or no. The New York Tribune then injected itself editorially into the discussion by calling attention to the fact that Mr. Wilson had forbidden for four years the holding of elections in Santo Domingo, had refused to permit the Dominican Congress to meet, had exiled the Dominican President, suspended the Dominican courts, and placed every power of government in the hands of an American military commander. That Haiti also has been subjected to a system even worse has just been learned from the expose of the Navy Department's methods and the job of corregimento has been given to the Navy Department. This is characteristic Wilson democracy in the making.

Now the people of Colombia with whom our relations are somewhat strained anyway, have been keen to note these aggressions of the Administration on Haiti and Santo Domingo. To them it signifies the adoption of a fixed policy of conquest—the gradual encroachment of the United States Government over the affairs of the Latin Americans. Recently, a ccording to this report the Colombian Congress passed resolutions of sympathy for Haiti in her present subjection to the American Government and the Colombian press took up the matter and censured the United States in scathing terms. The discussion is said to have waxed so acrimonious that our Minister to Colombia communicated with our State Department requesting that he be forfeited with data which would would tend to offset the charges made in the Colombian press and quiet the fears of the Colombianes respecting American intentions in the Latin Americas. The State Department thereupon supplied the Minister to Colombia with data in the nature of statistical reports showing that more pupils were attending school in Haiti this year than ever before that sanitary conditions had been improved, that Haiti's foreign trade was at record height, etc., etc., but the charges of governmental suppression in Haiti were slyly ignored.

Of course the reaction of the Colombianos to this begging of the main question was what might have been suspected from a people who prize liberty of action above anything else. The State Department dodge simply added fuel to the flames of denunciation of our policy in Haiti and Santo Domingo, and it was quite truthfully asserted by them that whatever might be the material prosperity, sanitary improvement, and educational uplift of the Haitians, the fact remained that they had been placed in the status of a subject race, and without liberty they were tntitled to the sympathy of all Latin American States, who might judge from this attitude of the United States of the real intentions of the "Colossus of the North." So the embarrassments of our Minister to Colombia have been increased rather than abated, to judge from the report.

With the return of this nation to constitutional methods of government—a government of laws instead of the government of one man—and intimate relations between the executive and the legislative, much may be done to reassure the Latin Americans as to our intentions. But under the secretive and authoratic policies of Mr. Wilson, approved by Mr. Cox, the little confidence which those people still have in us stands a fine chance of being utterly destroyed.

THE WAY IT ALL STARED

This is the date of the last of the day of October, the day following being All-Saints' Day, or All-Hallows. hi sis the date of the last of the three festivals held by the Druids, who in olden times were scattered over northern Europe. These festivals were observed on May 1, the time of sowing June 21, the season of the ripening of the crops, and October 31, the harvest season.

One of the religious rites of the Druids consisted in maintaining throughout the year, immense fires on stone altars erected upon eminences in honor of the Sun-God. On the night of October 31, the Druids assembled at the altars in their snow-white robes, and at a given signal, during the absolute silence on the part of the multitude gathered to witness the ceremony, they solemnly extinguished the fires. New fires were then kindled, and as the flames leaped heavenward, the people raised a mighty shout, and then, obtaining live embers from the altars, they returned to their homes to extinguish the old fires left burning on their hearths and kindle them anew with the sacred embers of the priests. This new fire was believed to protect e ach homestead from per- t so long as it remained burning.

As the Druidic faith faded in the ght of Christianity, the heathen festivals lost much of their grandeur and former significence, and assumed a lower character. Gradually the simple country folk came to believe that on October 31 the fairies forsook their hiding places to dance in the forest glades, while witches, goblins and other evil spirits had revels in deserted abbeys, or plotted against mankind in te shadows of ruined castles and keeps.

By a very natural transition the Hallowe'en fire came to be looked upon as a charm against evil spirits: nd even as late as the seventeenth century we learn that it was custom ry for the farmer to make the circuit of his acres brandishing a ghted torch, and chanting of some doggerel rhyme to protect his farm from the evils of the coming year.

From the fact that these supernatural agents seemed so near at this season, Hallowe'en was supposed to be the night of all nights for the prying into the mysteries of the future and this is probably the origin of those games and ceremonies by which it is claimed that one's fate may be learned, at the same time providing a great deal of innocent fun and flirtation for youths and maidens of e very degree at a Hallowe'en celebration

COX'S NOSE KNOWS

Governor Cox knows that even if he is elected the Wilson league cannot be ratified, because sufficient Senators who voted against it last spring will remain in the Senate in the next Congress to insure its defeat. Yet with that knowledge the Democratic candidate insists on the Wilson league or nothing. There has not come from him a single suggestion of what he would do looking to an international understanding for peace after he has submitted the league to the Senate of the 67th Congress and seen it again rejected. Presumably he will continue to butt his head against the stonewall of Senate opposition in seeking the impossible. Mr. Cox knows and everybody else knows that his stand is a stand against any move for international peace. The Wilson plan will be defeated and he will attempt no other.

Senator Harding favors an association of nations to discourage or prevent war, the plan to be worked out calmly after the United States has returned to peaceful relations with the rest of the world. Even if he were inclined to do so, Senator Harding knows that he could not force the Wilson league upon the Senate of the next Congress. But he stands ready to collaboraate with the other leading statesmen of his party in the perfection of an understanding with foreign nations whereby future wars may be avoided.

If those who advocate the entrance of the United States into the league of nations as a means for achieving world peace would but stop a moment and candidly reflect they would perceive that the only hope of world peace through the aid and support of the United States lies in the election of Senator Harding. Through him constructive steps toward that much desired end will be taken. Through Gov. Cox, if elected, nothing would be done.

NEWS AND TRADE.

Cable and other means of communication between different parts of the world should be open to all without discrimination or preference and this will be the view presented by the American delegates to the International Communications Congress. Nominally it will be the view of the British delegates also, but preference is inevitably involved in Great Britain's ownership of 80 per cent of the world's cables which she subsidizes for the use of her business men and newspaper interests. American press associations have no superiors in initiative and enterprise, but the fact just mentioned puts them at a disadvantage. British cable supremacy must endure for a long time to come, but there is nevertheless encouragement in foreign trade largely depends on an adequate cable service. This country needs direct and untrammeled cable communication with Latin-America and other great world markeas in order to become a permanent factor in the world's trade.

Never until now have American newspapers had anything like Government support of their efforts to extend American influence abroad. A new and promising step was taken when recently at the Government's request a group of prominent American newspaper men gathered in the State Department to place their needs before the delegates to the International Communications Congress. The very invitation was an official recognition of the national character of the service rendered by our press associations in seeking to send American news throughout the world.

PLACING THE IMMIGRANTS

Mr. E. B. Dunn, formerly weather forecaster for New York under the Department of Agriculture, proposes amendments to the immigration laws requiring each State to make periodical reports in retail of labor conditions, sending the gist of these reports to our consuls abroad, and requiring the immigrant with the advice of the consuls to select his place of location in this country according to its fitness to his needs In other words, the way to solve the immigration problems is to scatter the immigrants throughout the country, placing them where they are most needed.

Some years ago an earnest and intelligent Southen writer contended that the way to solve the negro problem was to put an end to the congestion of blacks in the Southern States and scatter them throughout the whole Union—the hope of the South eventually and in all ways being "bound up with a continuing efflux of blacks and influx of whites." But when the first scattering to speak of began, under the lure of war prices for labor Southern employers promptly increased the pay they were offering in order to keep the migrating blacks at home A similar issue would follow any attempt to "place" the incoming immigrants Free men in a free country can not be carted to any chosen location and advised to stay out. The immigrants can be advised but they must and will be allowed to follow individual inclination and go where they hope to find the most promising opportunities to better their condition.

A Chicago Tribune poet announces that "Babe" Ruth is better known than Homer, but omits to mention that after being famed for some thirty centuries Homer is good for at least thirty centuries more, while "Babe" Ruth's renown may endure about five years

Restaurants which are increasing their charges notwithstanding the drop in wholesale prices and the "carry your lunch" movement are exhibiting a "nerve" which they may regret.

The housing problem ought to begin to be less serious now that the American wholesale lumber dealers' association has announced an average cut of 23 per cent in prices.

Leading Wall street bankers evidently think that price cutting has only begun, for they are quoted as predicting a sharp drop in living costs within the next six months.

TO IMPROVE ROAD TO COUNTRY CLUB

Announcement that a contract has been awarded the Donora Construction Company for the improvement of the road leading to the Monongahela Valley Country Club by Monongahela City, will be welcomed by many residents of this vicinity, who are members of the club. Red dog will be placed on the road leading from Cemetery street, and continuing on to the city line at the Hagerty farm in Carroll township, and it is possible that the balance of the highway from that point to the club house will also receive attention, thus putting the road in passable condition for the winter.

Next week a delegation of citizens from Donora, Charleroi and Monongahela will go to Harrisburg, in an effort to have the State Highway Department improve with red dog the entire road to the borough line of North Charleroi. This would of course only be a temporary repair, as the highway is to be permanently improved by the State, being Number 5 on the list for Washington county.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the Charleroi W. C. T. U. on Friday afternoon at the Borough Building at 2:30 o'clock to hear the county President, Mrs. McGrew of Washington. A large attendance is earnestly solicited as matters of vital importance are to be discussed.

It is said that according to Government reports the tobacco manufacturing industry pocketed between 400 and 500 per cent profits on products sold to the American public last year, But what is the use of making and filing such reports if nothing is done to protect the public from such apoliation?

The last son of a Revolutionary soldier is said to have died the other day, but the last report showed that the Government was still paying a few Revolutionary war pensions

ONCE EVERY WEEK
THAT'S ALL I ASK

It's old fashioned, of course, but the old-fashioned people who believe in herbs are healthier than the wise children of today. If you want happiness first find health—my pure herb medicine will gently regulate the bowels, stimulate the liver, flush the kidneys, sweeten the stomach and enrich the blood. Your health will begin to improve at once. All I ask is that you take it once or twice a week. My Bulgarian Blood Tea is the favorite family medicine in millions of happy homes today. Physicians recommend it, and it is well to remember that Bulgarian Blood Tea taken steaming hot at bed time kills colds. Guard against influenza and pneumonia. Just ask your druggist today. Respectfully.

SELF-RELIANT HOME DOCTORS is what women are called who all over this broad land make their annual collections of roots and herbs, and rely upon recipes which our pioneer mothers found dependable for different family ailments. In one of these recipes, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had its origin and so successful has it proved that there is hardly a city, town or hamlet in America where some women who has been restored to health by its so does not reside.

LOWER PRICE LEVELS REACT TO THE PUBLIC'S ADVANTAGE

Our policy of reducing prices just as soon as market conditions permit, which, was outlined in an issue of last weeks paper, is now manifesting itself in form of a sale with new prices governing our merchandise. To quote part of our announcement "We will adjust our prices in accordance with each item, as it is affected." The result is to be seen in this issue of the "Herald"

We have NOT purchased any inferior goods or "Samples" that would permit an offering to the public at low prices as a cloak to disguise our motive, but to the contrary are offering our regular stock of merchandise that we always carry and upon which we base our past, present and future reputation. A look will convince you.

G. O. P. VICTORY IS NOW CERTAIN

State Will Go Overwhelmingly For Ticket.

VOTE IT STRAIGHT, SAYS CROW

State Chairman Calls Attention to Insidious Anti-Penrose Propaganda Aimed to Deceive Women Voters.

Philadelphia, October 23.—Everything is in first-class shape for the polling of a magnificent Republican vote and the securing of the biggest Republican majority in the history of Pennsylvania at the election next Tuesday. The Republican State Committee has made a careful survey of the field, looking into conditions in every county of the commonwealth, and has reached the conclusion that the old Keystone State will stand by the Republican party this year as it has never done before. The air is virtually charged with Republican sentiment and if there are any hopeful Democrats in Pennsylvania, which is doubtful, they will receive the surprise of their life when the returns come in next Tuesday

SENATOR BOIES PENROSE

The Democrats of Pennsylvania, apparently giving up all hopes of making any showing for Cox in this state, are now engaged in the work of trying to cut down the Penrose vote. Insidious propaganda of all kind and description is being spread broadcast against the leader of the United States Senate, and, who, on account of illness has not been able to make a canvass of the voters during the campaign. Most of these efforts have been directed at Senator Penrose among women voters, the schemers believing that the agitation has a better chance of taking root among persons inexperienced in politics and voting than among the men voters. But thinking women voters, who have been approached, very quickly discovered what was back of the movement and immediately took steps to prevent other female voters from being influenced by this Democratic deception and underhand acts against Senator Penrose.

State Chairman William E. Crow came out this week with a strong appeal to voters to not be misled into voting against Senator Penrose. He pointed out that no man in the United States is needed to back up a Republican administration as is Senator Penrose, whose broad experience and statesmanship have placed him at the head of the United States Senate.

Chairman Crow's statement is as follows:

"After carefully going over the situation in Pennsylvania based on data and other general information received from all the counties, I believe the Republican party, one week from next Tuesday, will win one of the greatest victories in its history. I look for a majority of at least 750,000, the re-election of Senator Penrose by an overwhelming vote, the election of the entire Republican State ticket as well as the success of more Republican congressmen than we have ever heretofore elected. I also look for a large controlling majority in both the Senate and the House at Harrisburg.

Trying to Deceive Women Voters.

"An attempt is being made to prejudice the women of the state against Senator Penrose because of his position on certain questions. They hope, thereby to confuse Republican women and thus into splitting their ticket in this important campaign. I trust the women electorate will not be fooled by any such propaganda, Democratic in origin and purpose, which aims to weaken the place and potentiality of the senior Senator. His standing in the councils of his party throughout the nation and his long experience and broad and wise statesmanship and leadership have made him a tower of strength to the Republican party in its solution of State and national issues, and, of consequence, the opposition desires to weaken his hold upon the suffrage of the people of his own state.

"In a Republican administration, Penrose's presence in Washington is of impelling importance to the political and business interests of this great state, and he should be returned with such increased majority as to strengthen his hold upon the confidence of the country. Senator Penrose has been deprived by illness, this year, of an opportunity to meet the voters, upon which I believe, he has the strongest hold of any man in public life in Pennsylvania, and this condition should enable Republicans of the state to redouble their efforts in his behalf, and thereby save the Republican women from being imposed upon by Democratic deception."

COX'S VARIED ROLES

By SCOTT C. BONE

At "one" with Woodrow Wilson and for Wilsonism and all it implies, without reservation, yet beseeching a weary, tax-burdened country to elect him President. That's Candidate Cox.

An exponent, for campaign purposes, of progressive thought and lofty ideals, yet nominated and backed by Boss Murphy, Boss Brennan, Boss Taggart and Ed Moore! That's Candidate Cox.

Wettest of the wet aspirants for President, save Edwards, by Bryan's appraisement, in a Democratic Convention dominated by the wets, yet now endeavoring to convince an arid country that he is dry and ever has been a dry! That's Candidate Cox.

Charging that a corruption fund of $15,000,000 was being raised to buy up the Presidency, and then, at safe distance from the seat of inquiry, raising the amount to $30,000,000, yet without producing an iota of evidence in support of his wild charges. That's Candidate Cox.

A machine-made politician, vouched for by Tammany, yet pretending to have been given the light in 1912 as a disciple of Theodore Roosevelt and Hiram Johnson! That's Candidate Cox.

Arraigning the press for not taking him seriously by printing his speeches, yet knowing, as a newspaper man, that the cost of print paper under this Administration is too high to give space to mere words! That's Candidate Cox.

Crying out against a mythical "Senate oligarchy," because the precious Wilson covenant failed of ratification, yet with full knowledge that hostility of Democratic Senators rendered ratification impossible! That's Candidate Cox.

A mild, dodging critic of Burlesonism and Palmerism, when confronted by hecklers out West, yet committed unqualifiedly to Burlesonism and Palmerism by the Democratic platform! That's Candidate Cox.

An apologist for the sinking of the Lusitania, a pacifist of the Newton Baker stripe as clouds gathered and interventionist on behalf of a rich slacker when war came on, yet today appealing for the support of American sons who went to the front! That's Candidate Cox.

Dry to the drys, wet to the wets, spiritually in the spiritual, all things to all crowds, in the face of the G. O. P. landslide clearly impending, yet never daring to deviate in his devotion to Wilsonism or the Wilson League by the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t"! That's Candidate Cox!

Only 14, But Is Very Busy Boosting Harding

Here is a picture of James Duncan MacGregor, Jr., age fourteen, who is the publisher of The Weekly Press of Stamford, Conn. In a recent issue of his newspaper he said:

"The editor of this paper wishes to say the object of The Weekly Press is to publish facts, and do my part in helping the United States get into office good, honest men, men who love their country first of all. As I am only fourteen years old, I cannot vote, but I appeal to all voters to cast their ballot for Senator Warren G. Harding and Governor Calvin Coolidge."

James numbers his ancestors among the signers of the Declaration of Independence and always has been a reader of biographies of great men. Roosevelt is his hero. Harding is his idea of the kind of a man the country should have for President.

BAKER'S ADVISOR OUT FOR HARDING.

Washington.—Major Benedict Crowell, Mr. Baker's former Assistant Secretary of War, warm admirer of President Wilson, is the latest distinguished man to declare in an interview that he is in favor of the election of Harding and Coolidge and a Republican Congress at the polls in November. Major Crowell goes so far as to say that he is in favor of the league of nations but he prefers to take his chances on getting the league with Senator Harding rather than with Governor Cox.

"Now that President Wilson is retiring from active political life," said Major Crowell, "it is wise for his supporters to pause and take stock of the situation. I have always favored a league of nations but the Democratic party has no monopoly on the league. Indeed, the present Democratic administration has failed on this subject in spite of the fact that 75 per cent of the Senate were in favor of some kind of a league.

"It seems evident that Governor Cox is making many promises regarding the league which he may not be able to fulfill."

Senator Harding, observation leads us to believe, has created a strong impression of earnestness, sincerity and high sense of duty. His utterances are marked by a studied moderation; he exhibits no arrogance of opinion, and has made no extravagant promises of a millennium to be created by proclamation; he seeks rather to express the national spirit than to impose a doctrine of political infallibility. And there is as unmistakably a growing view that Governor Cox is a shifty opportunist, superficial in thought, reckless in appeal and irresponsible in statements.—Philadelphia North American.

"When Warren is elected President the country will get a good, honest man who sympathizes with the common people. He was reared that way. He had a noble Christian mother and he was brought up under her fine influence."

Dr. Harding is hale and hearty and has use for neither glasses nor a cane. This was the fifth national encampment he had attended. He was the center of interest among his 60,000 comrades who attended the encampment.

VOTERS ENCOUNTER NO DIFFICULTY CHOOSING BETWEEN CANDIDATES.

Washington.—The American people are carefully making a close comparison right now between Senator Harding and Governor Cox. The choice between these two men and the policies they represent is not a difficult one and the writer honestly believes the American people have their minds made up and are ready to vote.

Senator Harding and Governor Cox are almost diametrically opposed to each other in everything. Senator Harding stands for Americanism and Governor Cox espouses internationalism. Harding is cautious about what kind of a league he and his party goes into while Cox wants to wade right into the European league as proposed by President Wilson.

Senator Harding is careful, deliberate, dignified, sincere, serious and constructive, while Governor Cox is crafty, quick to seize upon any kind of an artifice; he is bombastic and impulsive.

Senator Harding has been a lifetime accumulating a moderate fortune while Governor Cox jumped into the multimillionaire class in a few years. Harding lives modestly and quietly in an unostentatious manner while Governor Cox lives in luxury on a large estate in a home costing half a million dollars.

Warren G. Harding is fifty-five years of age on election day. He is old enough to know and young enough to do. His public life has not reached even the years of maturity.

The "Harmattan."

The name "harmattan" has been given to a dry, hot wind which periodically blows from the interior of Africa toward the Atlantic during December, January and February. Often within an hour after the harmattan begins to blow, green grass in its course is dry enough to burn

The "Porcelain Tower."

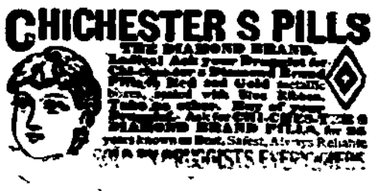
That was an octagonal structure king, China. It had nine stories, faced with variegated porcelain from which bells and lamps were hung. This was destroyed by the Taipings in 1853, but lives in history as one of the seven wonders of the middle ages.

A Nursery King Who Lived.

"Old King Cole," beloved of the nursery, was a British king who lived about A. D. 300. His accession was hailed with joy. To this day a large earthwork at Colchester is called "King Cole's Kitchen."

Early Christmas Cards.

W. C. T. Dobson has some claim to making the first Christmas card in 1844, but John C. Horsley made a Christmas card for Sir Henry Cole in 1843 and later began the publication of such cards. But there is nothing particularly new in the origin of pictures sent to remind friends of some particular event. The custom was very old in China, from which country so many customs came to be known as very old after they were established in Europe. In the Chinese laundries pictures in red and black used to be familiar to the man going for his weekly wash. They were Chinese New Year cards which remained on the walls until the next New Year came around. But the sale of Christmas cards as a business came in about 1845 or 1846. The American made Prang cards some years later have the credit for introducing quality and artistic design into Christmas card printing.—London Mail.



TRAFFIC TIED UP BY RAILROAD WRECK

A wreck occurred at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Randall, W. Va., on the line of the Monongahela Railways, near Morgantown which tied up traffic for many hours. All traffic had to be abandoned on that section of the line, trains being made up at Brownsville to take care of the traffic and to maintain the schedule

The wreck occurred in a deep cut where the M. & W. crosses the Monongahela Railway, which made it difficult for the wreck train to render effective service. The wreck was caused by a train of 80 cars breaking on a down grade, eight cars remaining with the engine, the cars from the rear crashing into the ones in front and piling eight of them up in the deep cut above mentioned. No one was hurt in the accident

RAILROAD BRIDGE IS IN BAD SHAPE

The railroad bridge on the Monongahela Diviison of the Pennsylvania railroad, across the mouth of Ten Mile creek, just south of Millsboro, is giving the maintenancee of way department considerable trouble at the present time. The north pier is about three inches out of line, caused by mining operations in that immediate vicinity, in which the ribs of present workings are being drawn. On Monday it was found necessary to stop all traffic south of the bridge, and continue the embargo on Tuesday, general traffic not being resumed to Rices Landing and Crucible until Wednesday morning

John Malinchak was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Paul R. Nutt on Wednesday afternoon, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and aggravated assault and battery As hec ould not furnish bail, he was taken to jail Wednesday afternoon to await the action of the grand jury

The telescope gives enlarged views of distant objects, the microscope shows only what is almost in contact with its lens, and by giving a means of making intermediate observations the modifications of the Davon microtelescope have proven a boon to the naturalist. With great depth of focus and a large field of view, the short focus type, for example, has a working distance of 10 to 18 inches, and magnifies 15 to 38 diameters. An adjustable rubber-tipped rod serves as a rest to support the instrument at the desired height for studying such objects as insects, plants and rocks.

Savages' Knowledge of Iron.

Explorers have been astonished to find in the wilds of Africa savages acquainted with the art of getting iron from its ores and working it. To smelt the ore, they use a primitive blast furnace of baked mud, with charcoal for fuel and bellows to engender the requisite high heat. It seems altogether likely that knowledge of these processes was originally derived by their ancestors in prehistoric days from the Arabs and Phoenicians, who then, as in later times, overran most of Africa.

Gave Him Idea for Balloon.

The invention of the ordinary balloon is said to have had an exceedingly simple origin, though some authorities give more than one instance of this discovery. A linen shirt was hanging in front of a fire, and Stephen Montgolfier, who is said to have invented the balloon, noticed that as the warm air rose it took the shirt with it. Quite a simple incident, which led to a remarkable invention. — Seattle Times.

The following statement is attributed to a well-known statistician: "The business and other institutions of the United States of America are run by not more than 2 per cent of those connected with them, and would fail if those 2 per cent were withdrawn. Of these 2 per cent, 4 per cent are the sons of bankers, eight of business men, twenty-five of doctors and thirty of preachers."

Removing Ink Stains.

To remove ink stains from either brass or copper a very simple remedy is required, but it is well worth knowing, as otherwise ink spilt on brass or copper inkstands and left to dry is a trouble to remove. Simply pour a few drops of fresh ink on the old stains and rub with a piece of rag, when the old stain will disappear quite easily. Polish in the usual way.

Bluffer Finally Unmasked.

For a time a chatterbox may outshine the wiser man whose tongue wags less. But, in the end, as Solomon long ago assured us, "a prating fool shall fall." The man whose brain works full time finds bluffing unnecessary. His talk is profitable, not only to himself, but to all with whom he comes in contact.

CRAB GETS FOOD FROM TREE

Seems to Know the Law of Gravitation and Exhibits Intelligence in Its Actions.

A crab that knows the laws of gravitation, climbs trees and picks cocoanuts, is described by Frederick O'Brien in his book, "White Shadows in the South Seas." Relating some of the strange things he saw while on the Marquesas islands, he says: "These crabs are more than two feet in length, and stalk about with their bodies a foot from the ground, supported by two central legs. They live in deep burrows in the coconut groves, which they fill with husks, so that the natives often rob them to procure a quick supply of fuel.

"When darkness descends, and all is quiet, the robber crab ascends the tree by gripping the bark with his claws. He will go up until he reaches the nuts, if it be a hundred feet. With his powerful nippers he severs the stem, choosing always a nut that is big and ripe. Descending the palm he tears off the husk. He tears it fiber by fiber, and always from that end under which the three eye-holds are situated. With these exposed he begins hammering on one of them until he has enlarged the opening so that he can insert the sharp point of one of his claws into it. By turning his claw backward and forward he scoops out the meat and regales himself luxuriously."

ARAB A "SLICK" SALESMAN

And His Keen Sense of Humor Sometimes Outweighs His Scruples, According to Traveler.

It is said that the Arab has a sense of humor. I had a small experience with that myself. It was in Babylon, and we were buying souvenirs from the women and children.

Major Wright, the officer in charge of the party, had just presented me with a small stone horse, the cream of the objects. I put it in my bag and began to negotiate for an inscribed stone with the little boy who had sold it. While some of the women were besieging me this child began to negotiate with a Y. M. C. A. man for this same stone. When the Y man found that I had been bargaining for it he proposed to give way to me.

Meantime, while we were both protesting and trying each to give way, this young Arab stole the horse from my bag and began to sell it to the Y man, who snapped it up at once. The youngster roared with laughter, looking at me the while. He knew well enough that I wouldn't give him away after the Y man had yielded to me, and he enjoyed the joke so much that he had to share it with me, the victim.

Spotted.

"I see where an advertiser warns a man who carried off his new overcoat to return it and no questions will be asked."

"Ha! Ha! An old trick. The man who took the coat might insert another advertisement telling the owner that if he knows so well who got his coat he'd better come and get it."

"Not so fast. The man who lost the coat describes the fellow who took it as wearing a blue serge suit, tan shoes and a gray cloth hat. He gives his height as about 5 feet and 8 inches; says he has slightly gray hair, is round-shouldered and has a wart on his chin, and concludes by giving the man's business address. I guess he'd better return that coat."

Quartz Utensils Instead of Platinum.

Platinum has been the only metal which has been heretofore available for use to withstand intense heat, but quartz is now successfully made use of in this capacity. To make these utensils the raw material is melted in the electric furnace, at a temperature exceeding 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit, under a pressure of 500 pounds to the square inch.

One peculiarity of these vessels is that when white-hot they can be thrown into cold water without breaking them. It is said that if a window of this kind of glass were inserted in a fire-proof steel safe and the latter exposed to the fiercest flames, the safe would suffer more than the window.

"What must I talk about?" asked the prominent citizen, who had been invited to address the inmates of a penitentiary.

"Oh, anything you like," said the warden, "but remember that you are going to speak to convicts, so don't hurt their feelings."

"Of course, I won't. I'll talk about the high cost of living. If there's anything that could make a man glad he's in prison it's the outside struggle for existence."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Slightly Different.

"You want another prescription?" exclaimed the doctor.

"No," answered Uncle Bill Bottletop. "I want this one to cure the headache I got from the last prescription."

"How about this fad for old clothes?"

BITTER WORDS IN CAMPAIGN

The presidential campaign of 1840 was bitterly fought by both the Harrison and Van Buren factions, and with the cry of "Tippecanoe and Tyler too" sounding throughout the land, mass meetings were held everywhere, at which speakers attacked Van Buren for his alleged extravagant refurnishing of the White House.

A state senator at a meeting held under a great elm tree at Crawfordsville, Ind., said the president ate from golden spoons, while most Americans still used horn or wood implements. He also charged the president with purchasing many young mulberry trees for the White House grounds, saying these evidently were intended to furnish silk table linen to match the golden spoons.

John Parsons, a twenty-two-year-old Virginian who toured the country for pleasure at the time, wrote about it and cited that the state senator ended his speech by saying: "But let me say, gentlemen, that there is another tree which would have been more appropriate to adorn the lawns and gardens of the executive mansion—that tree is the plane (phrase); rendered into English, the slippery elm!"

ROOM THAT IS NOISELESS

Remarkable Chamber Constructed for Research Work at the Famous University of Utrecht.

It is said that the physiological institute of the University of Utrecht possesses what is probably the most remarkable room in the world, a chamber about seven and one-half feet square, which is claimed to be absolutely noiseless, as far as the entrance of sounds from outside is concerned.

It is on the top story of a laboratory building and is an inside room, but is so arranged that it can be ventilated and inundated with sunshine. The walls, floor, and ceiling each consist of half a dozen layers of different substances, with air spaces and interstices filled with sound-deadening materials.

Some persons when in the room experience a peculiar sensation in the ears. While every effort has been made to exclude sounds that are not wanted, of course the object of constructing this singular room was to experiment with phenomena connected with sound. Some of the sounds employed are made in the room itself; others are introduced from outside by means of a copper tube, which is plugged with lead when not in use.

An Eye Camera.

The smallest camera in the world which has actually "taken" pictures is doubtless the eye of the frog. It has been found that if a frog is kept in the dark for some time the retina of the eye on being dissected is found to have a purple reddish color which fades away or becomes bleached on exposure to daylight. If the eye be placed in front of a window and left there or "exposed" for some time, and then fixed in a 4 per cent solution of alum the optogram is partially fixed and retains an inverted picture of the window with its cross bars as pictured on the retina. It is claimed that by a similar photographic process the last picture or image retained by the eye of a dead man or animal may be preserved.—Boys' Life.

On the Russian Frontier.

At the very moment when the traveler at the frontier takes the Russian railway train, there are three things which meet him like messages from a strange world: The language, which, with its rich and soft melody, has not the least resemblance to any of the western European tongues; the alphabet, of which some of the characters are new to us and others have a different meaning than in ours (as, for instance, H is used for N); and finally a computation of time, which tears you away from your customary almanac by rolling the time back for 12 days, and thereby burns the bridge of the civilization of western and southern Europe. —From "Impressions of Russia," by George Brandes.

Rossi, the Italian tragedian, achieved a great triumph of manner over matter when, dining at a cafe with some fellow actors, he accepted a wager that he could so read the menus as to bring tears to their eyes. His noble voice, pathetic at soups, appealing among fish, frenzied with the roast, rising to agony at vegetables, sinking to heart-broken sobs and poignant whispers in the enumeration of sweets and fruit, and fading finally at coffee to a dying sigh, was not to be resisted. Tears streamed down their cheeks and Rossi won the wager.

Dead Sea Bitumen.

Ample quantities of bitumen occur in the Dead sea region. Dead sea bitumen was undoubtedly used in ancient times. It is evident that the walls of the temples and palaces of Babylon and Nineveh were joined with bituminous cements, and there are bitumen-lined cisterns in Syria of great antiquity which are still water-tight, and fit for use.

Music's Charms.

"No; Nearsighted."

BIG CAMPAIGN FOR DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY

Pittsburg, Oct. 22—(Special)—Willis F. McCook, of this city, one of the leading lawyers of the state, has accepted the chairmanship of the Duquesne University $1,000,000 building fund Campaign and under his direction an intensive drive will be made from Nov. 6 to and including Nov. 15, throughout Western Pennsylvania. Every parish of the 290 in the Catholic Diocese of Pittsburg which embraces 10 counties, has appointed teams of fund-raisers trained during the patriotic campaigns of the war, and special corps of business and professional men will canvass the industrial and commercial sections of the entire district.

Of the million dollars needed to provide new buildings and to meet the broadened scope of instruction being given at Duquesne, the alumni are pledged to give $250,000. This pledge was made this week when 70 priests, including five overseas chaplains, at a meeting in this city, agreed to make a separate canvass of the university graduates. Direct appeals will be made to every alumnus, and state chairman have been appointed to supervise the collections in their respective territories.

Not only are the parishes in the Pittsburg diocese actively interested; Duquesne University is recognized as a great educational asset to the entire western part of the State, and parishes throughout the 21 counties in this section are taking an active part in making the campaign a success.

Industrial and commercial interests throughout the western part of the state have promised large contributions to the fund. Duquesne University has long been noted for the high standards of teaching maintained, and its graduates are eagerly sought for by big business interests. To quote the head of one of the biggest concerns in the Pittsburg district:

"Every dollar we give to this university we can look on as developing a possible executive for our company. We have taken scores of Duquesne graduates during the last 25 years, and without exception they have developed into high class workers, whose early training at the University has fitted them thoroughly for the larger activities they have been called upon to conduct.

"I have never heard of a college having a course in common sense. I am not aware that Duquesne has that; but judging entirely from the men the university has sent us, I am compelled to feel that in every course taught there common sense must play a leading part. The result is graduates of broad gauge, men who are able to grasp problems quickly and just as quickly work out their solution. That is why I feel—and in this feeling every big business man I know shares—that every contribution given to this great institution means a potential business or professional man of exceptional ability."

Corporations in this city and the contiguous territory are contributing to the fund, because the managements, as the man just quoted, look upon the university as one of the best training schools in the country. They consider the greater the institution is the more bright youths it will attract, and they know from past experiences that a large proportion of these on finishing their college careers will enter business either in the city or in one of the nearby towns. For that reason they consider that every contribution will be returned many times over in the high degree of intelligence and executive ability Duquesne graduates will bring to their business.

These men of broad vision and highly successful lives, hold that every success for their individual concerns means an advantage to the entire community, and for that reason they have joined with the Rt. Rev. J. F. Regis Canevin, bishop of the diocese, and the campaign committee in urging that the entire community support the university's drive.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR AMBULANCE EQUIPMENT

Chief of Police Albright says that in the future no more bedding and blankets will be sent with patients who are being sent to out of town hospitals by the local department having the ambulance in charge. The officers have had several unfortunate experiences in the way of losing their equipment, and at the present time are short a mattress and several blankets and pillows which were sent out of town last week. While the ambulance will be available for patients, and the equipment will be utilized for the purpose of taking patients to local hospitals or to trains, yet when patients are to sent to outside hospitals, the family or the friends must furnish the bedding on which to rest the patient. Chief Albright says it is a case where the officers in charge simply must protect their equipment if it is to be available for service when needed.

SOLICITING FUNDS FOR WORTHY CAUSE

Wm. H. Milliken has been appointed treasurer for the purpose of receiving funds which the local policce department are now soliciting for the benefit of the family of the late Officer Gus Brickner. As is well known to our people, Officer Brickner lost his life during the flu epidemic of two years ago, while he was working almost day and night in an effort to relieve the burdens of those who were stricken with the disease. He left a widow and several children, with no one to look after their support. Through the generosity of our people their wants have been provided for, but the heavy cost of living has materially reduced their resources, until assistance is again necessary. The officers of the force are therefore receiving subscriptions to a fund, which when received will be turned over to Mr Milliken, who will disburse the money and apply it to the needs for which it is being solicited. Those whom the officers approach are asked to be as liberal and generous as their circumstances will permit. The case is a worthy one, and should receive prompt attention.

LOADED TRUCK SPEED LIMITED ON BRIDGES

The commissioners of Westmoreland county have received from State Highway Commissioner Sadler, a copy of the law which provides that no truck with a gross weight of four tons or over shall travel faster than six miles an hour over any bridge.

The county officials wrote the State Highway Department asking for information about the speed limit because of the frequent damage to bridges in other counties when overloaded trucks pass over them at a high rate of speed. Prosecutions will be made for all violatons the commissioners said.

RECEPTION HELD BY WEST PENN EMPLOYES

The October meeting of the employes of the West Penn Power Co., and their wives, under the auspices of the N. E. L. A., of which Jas. McFall of Pittsburg, is president, was held at the Elks Club on Wednesday evening. Representatives were present from Pittsburg, Washington, Canonsburg, Uniontown, Connellsville, Brownsville, Monongahela, Donora, and Charleroi, and all told about two hundred guests were present.

The occasion last evening took the form of a social event, in which dancing was the leading feature, with refreshments provided by a buffet lunch. Music was furnished by the Jenkins-McGowan Popular Players, which as usual was up to the usual high standard of this organization. Out of town guests came by special street car and automobiles, and all of them appeared to enjoy the festivities of the evening to the fullest extent. A number of Charleroi people not connected with the West Penn company were among the invited guests.

DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL EVENT AT COUNTRY CLUB

The usual Tuesday night dinner dance at the Monongahela Valley Country Club was cancelled for that night, and in its stead a card party for members was held under the auspices of the ladies' committee. Considering the character of the weather the attendance was very gratifying and a delightful evening was spent by those who were present. Thursday evening a Hallowe'en costume dance, without masks, will be held by members, and the event is expected to be one of the most delightful affairs ever held at the club. Special decorations will feature, while splendid music will be furnished by an orchestra from Portsmouth, Ohio. Those in charge of the social events at the country club are highly gratified over the way in which members are taking advantage of the opportunities presented, and thus becoming better acquainted with each other.

OUR JOB DEPARTMENT IS ALWAYS BUSY— THERE'S A REASON

PITTSBURGH AS A WORLD-WIDE PORT

Pittsburg was a world-wide port in 1801. The Ohio river furnished the artery of communication with the ports of France, England and the West Indies. A fleet of vessels was built in a shipyard there and the products of the west as well as those of the Pittsburg district, were carried to the principal ports of distribution overseas. Will the prophecy of Isaac Harris that Pittsburg will be the greatest inland port of the world come true?

Mr. Harris was editor of "The Harris Intelligencer and Commercial Reporter" before and after the year 1841. He issued a business directory in that year.

In 1841 the statistics of the port of Pittsburg, as compiled by Mr. Harris, showed that the Water street front was as busy as any port in the world. The trade of Pittsburg was carried away to all points along the three rivers and to foreign ports. Forty thousand Kentucky and keel bottom boats, ships of burden and bargts were made there.

The big water carrying trade of Pittsburg began in 1801 by the establishment of a shipyard, rigging and sail loft, an achor shop, a block factory and everything necessary to construct and equip ships for the sea. In 1801 thes chooner Amity of 120 tons was built, followed by the ship Pittsburg of 250 tons. The Amity was sent to St. Thomas with a cargo of flour. The Pittsburg was sent around to Philadelphia and then to Bordeaux, France, also with flour. The return cargo consisted of wine brandy and other French goods.

So successful was the experiment of reaching the markets of Europe that in 1802 more ocean going ships were built. The brig Nancy of 250 tons was the largest. In 1803 the ship Louisiana of 300 tons was constructed in the Pittsburg shipyards. Each year the vessels grew larger, so that in 1904 the ship Western Trader of 400 tons was built. Introduction of the wagon trade and the railroads cut down the river trade, but in 1839 and 1841 the arrivals at the port of Pittsburg were still encouraging. From August, 1839 to July, 1841, the report of Thomas McFadden, wharfmaster showed that 5,378 steamboats, 906 keel boats and 4,376 flat and other boats had come and gone on the Monongahela river, making a total of 10,601 arrivals and departures.

TAKES CONTRACT TO DELIVER BALLOTS

The contract for the delivery of the ballots for the general election on next Tuesday has been let to W. G. Nease of Washington for $600. There are now 157 precincts in the county, and it will be necessary for Mr Nease to visit every one of these precincts, as each sealed bundle has to be delivered personally to the judge of the precinct, and a receipt taken for the same, and this receipt returned to the county commissioners. On account of the fact that the women vote at this election, the bulk of the ballots is greatly increased. The number of ballots in some of the larger precincts run as high as 1,-[illegible]. This is Donora second precinct. In Donora fourth the number is 1,-954; in East Washington, 1,075. The official ballot is large. The work of delivery will start possibly on Friday.

HOMES RANSACKED AFTER FIRE ALARM

During the excitement which prevailed while the Monongahela fire department was answering a false alarm to VanVoorhis shortly before noon on Wednesday, five residences in the Park avenue district of that city were ransacked and a total of $161 in cash secured by what was believed to be a gang of robbers.

A telephone call was received by the fire department about 10:30 o'clock, saying that a fire had been discovered in VanVoorhis. As the department rushed through town on the way to the scene residents flocked to the streets. It was while they were thus engaged that the five houses were entered and robbed. The police of that city believe the alarm was a scheme on the part of robbers to get people to leave their homes in order that they could enter and steal valuables.

Legacy Hard Lot.

In the middle ages lepers were shorn less consideration in Europe and the East than animals because of the fear that disease would attend their very touch. Thus it was that the miserable sufferers were wanderers, going from place to place with their hooded gowns and their tinkling bells in hand, to warn the "clean" that something "unclean" was approaching. Time and civilization made the sad lot of the leper more endurable; no longer is he stoned and driven from place to place by those who follow the command of self-preservation. Every country has provided colonies and institutions where the victims are free to move about as they please, without bells or hoods or other distinctive marks. Humane methods have replaced the barbarous practices of other countries, and now through the application of the perfected chaulmoogra preparation there is hope held out to many who could see only hopelessness as their lot in life.

Real Wet Spot.

For such a little archipelago, the Hawaiian islands offer remarkable varieties of climate. Parts of them have much less annual rainfall than the Eastern states, whereas on some of the lofty mountains there is an almost continuous downpour through the year. Thus the island of Kauai on the leeward side has Waialeale mountain (Inaccessible except to experienced mountain climbers), and upon its lofty slopes there fell in five recent years an annual average of 476 inches of rain—almost 40 feet, that is to say! That, however, is not a maximum for that wettest spot on earth. In 1914 and again in 1918, as shown by United States weather bureau rain gauges, 50 feet in depth of water fell from the skies upon that one mountain top.

Ancient Irish Lore.

The ruins of Shanes castle are on the shores of Lough Neagh, Ireland, the domain which for a long time was the seat of that family of O'Neills that ruled Ireland before the coming of St. Patrick. The emblem of the O'Neills is the red hand, and the story is that many hundred years ago, when a Viking invader was nearing Ireland, he promised vast possessions to the first man who touched land. An O'Neill, the progenitor of the great race, cut off his left hand and flung it ashore, thus touching land before any of his fellow adventurers. This story is not the sole property of the O'Neills. Other families claim it under somewhat modified circumstances, but the O'Neills have always used the red hand for their emblem.

Payment.

It is always the part of prudence to face every claimant and get every just demand, on your time, your talents, or your heart. Persons and events may stand for a time between you and justice but it is only a postponement. You must pay at last your own debt. Wisdom is the end of nature. But for every benefit which you receive a tax is levied. He is great who confers the most benefits . . . In the order of nature we cannot render benefits to those from whom we receive them, or only seldom. But the benefit we receive must be rendered again, line for line, deed for deed, cent for cent, to somebody. Beware of too much good staring in your hard . . . Pay it away quickly in some form.—Emerson.

First Roman Emperor.

During the life of Christ, Augustus was emperor. He was the grand nephew of Julius Caesar, and before coming to the throne was known as Octavius. He was the first emperor. He died in the year 14 of the Christian era, and was succeeded by Tiberius, a stepson of Augustus. He lived until the year 37 A. D. and was on the throne at the time of the crucifixion. For many years after the establishing of the empire, each emperor bore the title Caesar as well as his own name.

The Kookaburra.

Australia has no nightingale, but it has a bird quite exceptional in its songs—the kookaburra or the "laughing jackass." Its laugh is so human that sailors on the coast often mistake it for that of a native. The kookaburra is about the size of a crow, but is more handsomely colored, being mottled brown and white, with a patch of blue on the wings and tail. It is a bird of prey, and has a powerful beak. It is said to be easily tamed, and becomes very much attached to its master.

Pewter.

An article is said to clean pewter is to rub it with a cut surface of raw potato dipped in powdered bath brick. Then polish with a soft cloth. Pewter is a mixture of tin and lead, sometimes with a little copper added to harden it. Britannia metal is composed of tin, antimony and copper, and is harder than pewter. Both pewter and britannia metal are made in a variety of forms, from the most ordinary articles to the finest work of the silversmith.

Fragrance of Rosewood.

Rosewood, the commercial name applied to a beautiful wood for ornamental furniture, derives its name from the fact that when the tree is cut it has a rose odor. The heart wood possesses a strong, rose-like fragrance.

Sounds Like Hashimura's Work.

Rule No. 2 for motorists in Japan runs as follows: "When a passenger of the fair sex is in sight incite the horn trumpet to him melodiously at first. If he still obstacles your passage toot him with vigor and express yourself in French the warning: 'Hi! Hi!'"—Boston Transcript.

Something Being Then.

If only more millionaires had the imaginations of poets, such a Florida editor, what a wonderful world this might be! But wouldn't it be a still more wonderful world if more poets had the incomes of millionaires?—Springfield Republican.

He Was Right.

"Can any boy tell me the three books referred to in the book of Proverbs?" There was a silence in the class till one youth held up his hand and replied: "Your breakfast, your dinner and your supper."

Fashion Note.

"Who made you?" said the bishop, stopping to pat a little darling on the head of golden curls. "God," came the prompt answer. "Well, well," replied the bishop, "I must go and tell Him how well He has done His work."—Judge Morrell Post.

Kitted Value of Old Coins.

Old-fashioned copper coins, the years 1817, 1818, 1819 and 1820 were formerly very rare and correspondingly valuable, but hoes full of them were found in an old bank and the market was flooded.

Influence of the Pilgrims.

The coming hither of the Pilgrims three centuries ago . . . shaped the destinies of this continent, and therefore profoundly affected the destiny of the whole world.—President Theodore Roosevelt. (Provincetown, 1907.)

Colin Cotterie Literal.

Since 1851 the value of rare coins has increased, roughly speaking, 1,000 per cent, many rich men having taken up the fad of collecting them. A Washington man owns a collection of 2,000 varieties for which he has refused $2,000. For one very rare specimen he gave a one-carat diamond!
